

ABSTRACT

A communications system comprising receiving and transmitting means for receiving and transmitting wireless optical signals wherein said receiving and transmitting means utilize holographic multiplexer, demultiplexer and storage technology for improved broadband where required while accommodating alternative communication modalities and protocols for maximum user benefit at lower cost.